City burns

BEIRUT (AP) — Flames and black clouds billowed over Beirut Tuesday as Syrians renewed their shelling of Christian sectors, ignoring pleas from Lebanese President Elias Sarkis to end the fighting that is reported to have taken 250 lives in six days.

In New York, Foreign Minister Louis de Guiringaud of France postponed a trip to Brazil to work with United Nations diplomats for a ceasefire in Lebanon, official sources said.

UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim offered his office to help achieve a Lebanese ceasefire and it was reported the United Nations is considering the evacuation of 301 UN dependents from Beirut.

After a relatively calm night, Syrian wings of an Arab League peacekeeping force opened up at mid-afternoon with artillery, rocket and mortar fire into neighborhoods where right-wing Lebanese militias maintain strongholds. Many areas were reported to be without running water or electricity.

An estimated 250 Lebanese have been killed and 502 wounded in heavy fighting since Wednesday. In a television address Monday, Sarkis said the fighting in east Beirut has pushed his country "to the verge of collapse." He asked for peace and promised to establish a new government to replace the caretaker regime of Premier Salim el Hage.

Tuesday's shelling apparently hit an oil storage depot northeast of the capital, exploding it and sending flames and a black cloud high over the city.

As in the past, it was impossible to prove which side started the flare-up, but the right-wing Voice of Lebanon radio station said the Syrians opened fire without provocation. The Syrian command did not comment.

"Syrian forces suddenly opened fire on women, children and old people in east Beirut and northeastern mountain resorts," the radio said. Among the mountain towns shelled was Beqfaya, hometown of rightist Phalangist party leader Pierre Gemayel.

Lions blitz nets $6,000

The small army of volunteers who marched on Terrace Monday collected over $5,000 to aid the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The final figure is expected to go somewhat higher as returns from various smaller communities within the district come in.

Lions Club officials expressed their thanks to all the residents and particularly to the volunteers for their help in this campaign.

AGAINST CANCER CAUSES

Better safeguard needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian laws governing cancer-causing substances are far below international labor standards, the federal labor department said in a report released Tuesday.

The report on Canada's compliance with the international labor code said "co-ordinated actions on the part of federal and provincial authorities to provide adequate safeguards against occupational cancer are ... necessary."

A convention adopted by the Geneva-based International Labor Organization (ILO) in 1974 says all cancer-causing substances or agents should be identified and should be replaced, where possible, by noncarcinogenic or less harmful ones.

The ILO convention also calls for the keeping of records, medical examination of workers and instruction of workers in the handling of carcinogenic substances.

"In Canada, the present degree of compliance with the convention is minimal," the labor department study said.

The study recommended federal-provincial co-operation to provide uniform standards.

Police name dead child

Police have released the name of the 14-month-old child who was killed on the weekend in an incident involving a motor vehicle. An RCMP spokesman said Tuesday that as the result of a police investigation a charge will be laid.

George Larry Eaglespeak was found dead in the 4500 block Little Avenue at about 5:30 p.m. Saturday after children were seen playing in the vicinity of a truck. A Terrace man is scheduled to appear in court to face a charge of driving with a blood alcohol level over .08.

The child's name was not immediately released as not all the next of kin had been notified. An inquest will be held, but no date has been set.

Woodworkers meet urging gov't action

VANCOUVER (CP) — Delegates to the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) regional convention have passed several economic resolutions aimed at urging new government legislation.

Delegates want the federal government to immediately cut income taxes to all Canadians earning less than $25,000 a year in order to curb inflation.

Also adopted Monday were other resolutions demanding provincial governments embark on jobcreation programs and initiate policies "to relieve the unemployment problems and achieve satisfactory full employment levels."

TO SAVE DOLLAR

Reserves drained

OTTAWA (CP) — The government drained Canada's official reserves by $1.14 billion U.S. in September in a continuing effort to slow the slide in the dollar's value.

News of the record intervention by central Bank of Canada traders in currency markets last month initially sent the dollar into another tailspin.

Within hours of the release of official reserves statistics by the finance department, the dollar slipped nearly a quarter of a cent in value from Monday's close to a 45-year low of 83.66 cents U.S. at mid-morning.

But by late afternoon, the dollar rallied and was trading at 84.37 cents U.S. in New York money markets. That was up from 83.89 cents U.S. at the close of trading Monday.

In the last two months, the government has spent $1.85 billion—$711 million in August and $1.14 billion last month—buying up unwanted

Question this! Jolliffe told

"You've been hoist on your own petard," was the analysis Monday night after the Terrace Council meeting where Alderman Vic Jolliffe complained to the mayor that his pay cheque was delivered to him unsigned.

"You are the one who told me to be careful about the cheques I sign," Mayor Dave Maroney told Jolliffe.

"Perhaps you should wait until I am out-of-town and get the deputy mayor to sign," the mayor added.

"But this time it will be Alderman Soutar and he sure wouldn't sign my pay cheque," Jolliffe replied.

The mayor relented during the meeting and signed the cheque. Other aldermen seemed to enjoy the mayor's sense of humor more than Alderman Jolliffe.

WITH INTEREST

Potash tax ruled illegal

Province to repay money

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan suffered two major legal defeats Tuesday when the country's highest court rejected potash rationing, then ordered it to pay interest on millions of illegally collected tax dollars.

The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the province's potash rationing program, established in 1969, is unconstitutional. It also said the province is obligated to pay interest on $9 million collected from Canadian Industrial Gas and Oil Ltd. (CIGOL) under an illegal mineral income tax and crude oil surcharge.

In both cases the rulings went 7 to 0 against Saskatchewan's New Democratic government, which is in the midst of a campaign for re-election.

Legislation establishing the mineral income tax and crude oil surcharge was ruled unconstitutional by the court last November. That ruling and Tuesday's interest decision are precedents affecting other oil companies operating in Saskatchewan.

It has been estimated that the province collected $500 million in illegal charges from CIGOL, now owned by Norcen Energy Resources Ltd., and other oil companies. Interest on that for this year alone would be $50 million, and the interest goes back to 1974 when the tax and surcharge legislation was passed.

However, the Saskatchewan government did get a bit of a break in the potash appeal. The high court refused to award damages to Central Canada Potash Co. Ltd., which instituted the challenge to pro-rationing laws.

Potash is a crystalline substance used in the fertilizer industry. Saskatchewan's former Liberal government approved pro-rationing laws when overproduction and falling prices threatened the vital potash mining industry. The plan involved setting production quotas and a minimum price.

Potash producers complained that the process made it difficult for them to supply their own customers. Later, the NDP government modified the plan and producers said the changes prevented them from supplying their own customers at all.

Central Canada Potash went to court and won a declaration that the potash laws were unconstitutional and $1.5 million in damages. The Saskatchewan Court of Appeal overturned that decision.

The high court said Tuesday that the province was regulating potash exports and fixing the prices—an infringement of federal jurisdiction.

FORMER UBC HEAD DIES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Walter H. Gage, president of the University of British Columbia (UBC) from 1969 to 1975, died Tuesday of cancer. He was 73.

Gage enrolled at UBC as a freshman in 1921 and after receiving his Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees in mathematics, began his teaching career in 1927 at Victoria College.

He returned to UBC as an assistant professor in 1933 and continued to teach until March of this year. During his years as president, he continued to teach.

Pilot relates crash details

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Captain Reginald Stewart told a coroner's jury Tuesday that the Toronto International Airport runway from which his Air Canada DC-9 skidded last June was disastrous.

Stewart, his voice shaking, criticized the 2,945-metre runway which terminates 124 metres from an 18.5-metre ravine.

Two persons were killed in the June 26 crash and 105 other passengers were injured when the two-engine jet aircraft slid off the end of the runway and plunged into the ravine, breaking into three pieces.

Stewart said it was disastrous for the runway to have less than 124 metres over-run.

John Painter, an expert on aerodynamic performance for MacDonnell Douglas Corp., builders of the aircraft, testified that the fully-loaded plane would have needed an additional 16 metres to stop in the damp conditions.

Earlier, the inquest was told that Stewart had not received training in the specific emergency procedures required when the undercarriage warning light of a DC-9 flashes on. Testimony revealed that the tread of a tire tore away during take-off and knocked an undercarriage switch which flashed a warning light in the cockpit.

Part of the tread also bounced off the plane's wing before being sucked into the right engine, causing a loss of power.

Tom Thususka, Air Canada's chief pilot for DC-9s in the Toronto area, testified that no training for emergency reaction to the warning light has been given to any of the 216 DC-9 pilots.

"I've never heard of it (the red warning light) happening in a DC-9 in nine years," Thususka said.

The inquest under Coroner Thomas Daglish is investigating the death of two passengers, Irwin Childs, 45, of Toronto and Frank Scrase of Victoria, B.C.

Thususka said that Stewart and First Officer Douglas Carnegie had only one second to decide what to do after the red warning light appeared and only three seconds in which to act.

The inquest continues.

American fishermen going back to court

SEATTLE (AP) — Fishing regulations adopted under a United States-Canada agreement should take precedence over rules adopted to enforce the Boldt decision, say two commercial fishing groups in a federal court suit.

An action filed in U.S. District Court asks that Indians be ordered to obey regulations adopted under the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission.

As the result of the 1974 federal court ruling by U.S. District Judge George Boldt, treaty Indians have been given more time than non-Indians to work the pink and sockeye salmon runs in the Strait of Juan de Fuca and in north Puget Sound.

Indians should face the same restrictions as others in working salmon runs covered by international agreements, argue the Purse Seine Vessel Owners Association and the Puget Sound Gillnetters Association in their suit.

The suit says special fishing regulations adopted by the Bureau of Indian Affairs allow Indians "to fish in a manner and during times which are inconsistent with the commission regulations for the 1978 commercial fishing season."

CALLED THOM'S TRICKERY

Health unit ploy upsets council

At a special meeting of Terrace city council Monday evening, Alderman Vic Jolliffe and Alderman Bob Cooper were called upon to explain what transpired at regional district council on Saturday.

Alderman Jolliffe gave a verbal report outlining the fact that a motion had been passed asking that the new health unit be built in Kitimat with the District of Kitimat assuming all debt repayment costs for the facility.

"We were outsmarted and left with no defense," Jolliffe said. "Now there is great danger that the minister will shelve the entire project," he added.

Alderman Cooper suggested that someone should go to Victoria to explain the situation properly to government officials.

Mayor Dave Maroney suggested that it is far too late in the day for the unit to be moved now.

"A great many people have spent a great deal of time on this project, and the British Columbia Building Corporation owns the property in Terrace and is ready to call tenders based on soil conditions, location, and other factors, all of which are contingent on the centre being built in Terrace," Maroney said.

The mayor did agree with Alderman Cooper who moved a motion that the two regional district members, Cooper and Jolliffe, the mayor and the administrator travel to Victoria to discuss the matter if it is necessary.

The mayor underlined the "if it is necessary" portion, but agreed with the general motion. The motion passed unanimously.

Alderman Cooper also suggested that the regional council should be asked that the most important issues not be put on the addendum as was Kitimat Mayor George Thom's letter.

"This was tricky on the part of Mayor Thom who is actually electioneering, but it will not effect the people in Victoria," Alderman Alan Soutar added.

CBC head wants to halt American TV expansion

OTTAWA (CP) — With Canadian viewing of Canadian television programs at its lowest, president Al Johnson of the CBC proposed Tuesday that no more American channels be allowed on cable TV systems.

Appearing before the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) seeking renewal of CBC television and radio network licences for a four-year term, Johnson also asked that pay-TV plans for Canada be placed on the shelf for about five years until Canadian programming is in a better competitive position.

To further alleviate what Johnson saw as almost complete dominion of American programming over Canadian programming, the CBC head also proposed: —Increasing Canadian content of prime-time programming on CBC to 65 per cent from 60 per cent.

—Ordering private broadcasters to increase their Canadian content to 55 per cent in prime time, an increase of five per cent.

—That cable systems carry additional Canadian program services as they are developed and contribute to their costs. He mentioned as examples parliamentary debates and a proposed second CBC-TV service.

Johnson also said that fees paid for cable TV service should be considered as a source of funding for Canadian programs along with the commercial revenues of broadcasters and parliamentary grants.

He rejected a commission suggestion that the CBC drop all American programming, saying that the corporation's mandate from Parliament is to provide mixed programming which includes the best foreign programming.

He also described as unrealistic a suggestion that the CBC drop commercials from its television service as it had in radio.

Johnson quoted a CBC survey which said 64 per cent of all programs available to Englishspeaking Canadians were produced outside of Canada, mainly in the U.S. Englishspeaking Canadians spend about 74 per cent of their viewing time watching foreign programs, and 53 per cent of French-Canadians now watch an English-language station at least once a week to watch American programs.

He said Canadian youngsters, spending twice as many hours on television as they do in their classrooms, are watching shows that are 83 per cent American in English-speaking provinces, 60 per cent for French-language provinces.

"... They are being influenced by the values and traditions and attitudes which are reflected on American television instead of Canadian values and attitudes and traditions," warned Johnson.

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

BY RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa. In case you missed it ... Jackie O seems to be casting a shadow on the romantic future of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

And while it may be an exceedingly thin and decidedly uncertain shadow, it reaches far enough to tinge the not exactly lily-white gossip
pages of the international fashion-fixing newspaper, Women's Wear Daily, which trendily
calls itself 'WWD,' and the talk-of-the-town columns of London's chatty national dailies like The Mirror, Sun, Mail, and the Daily Express.

This is the sort of rumor -- based on nothing
more substantial than innuendo, but not absolutely beyond the outer bounds of possibility either -- that keeps the Prime Minister in the peekaboo, tattle-tale pages of the international media.

To 'WWD' he is one of the 'Beautiful People.'
To the London dailies and the notorious German and French slick photo-journals, he remains still, at 58 the good-looking VIP Playboy Prem.

And apparently, fair game.
The fantasy of PET and Jackie remarrying is raised by Stephen Birmingham, author of 'Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy Onassis,' one of his series of 'psycho-histories' of the world's 'super-rich.'

Interviewed by the gossipsmiths working the Manhattan-Mayfair grapevine, he muses:

'Jackie O was married to two of the most difficult men in the world and survived. And isn't that saying something!'

'She is alone now a lot of the time ... (and) while she is definitely not the kind of a girl you could call up casually and invite to a movie ...
she gives signs that she would like to remarry.'

'Who is to respond to the signals?
'We've lost King Hussein.' (Recently remarried.)

'Is there anybody available in England?
'Perhaps Pierre Trudeau in Canada?' (He lunched with her once.)

'At the mention of Bill Paley ... Paley?
'Yes.' (He's the Godfather of CBS radio-TV empire and very eligible.) 'A very lively and extremely interesting possibility.'

But Pierre in Ottawa when he isn't in Manhattan, London, Bonn, Paris mixing
business and pleasure, or playing sand, wind and water games in Cozumel, Morocco, Nassau, and on the Med?

The New York-London chatterboxes leave it hanging on a question mark.

But taking a look around here at home, and remembering much of Pierre Trudeau's life -- not always an open book -- has had its element of fantasy, the cautious answer has to be that with this remarkable man nothing, really, is impossible -- improbable, unlikely, yes, but impossible, no; nothing is.

The still 'private Trudeau,' he, as always,
makes a fetish of insisting -- and making it stick --
that when he's not working as Prime Minister,
he is very much his own man. Which is nobody's business, least of all that of the press or public.

The only time that bullet-proof mirror of privacy has cracked was when it got around that he had dated Sandra O'Neill, former cabaret
performer now in Toronto.

Margaret Trudeau?

What odds reconciliation after her utter humiliation of him in standing him up when she failed to show -- following her fantastic Rolling Stones adventure -- at Harrington Lake as his hostess at an official dinner for British Prime Minister James Callaghan and Mrs.
Callaghan? The black eye? And the garter belt
of the same hue?

So speaking of the fantastic, why not Jackie O
for a man-of-the-world whose intimates insist is
'58 going on 40?'

NEST TROUBLE SPOT

Carter looks at Lebanon

WASHINGTON (CP) —
President Carter, buoyed
by the prospect of one Middle East peace success, now turns his attention to another trouble
spot in the area, the
dispute between Moslems
and Christians in Lebanon.

Carter has in mind a peace conference involving Lebanon, Syria,
United States, Israel,
France, Egypt and other
interested countries,

meeting under the aegis
of the United Nations.

The conference would seek

more than another c easefire: it would be aimed at developing a
new framework for
power-sharing between
the Christians and the Moslems.

Carter's proposal has won some praise both at home and abroad but observers wonder how he plans to gather and re-

convile the immensely
divergent factions involved.

Since Carter proposed
the conference, a new round of fighting between Syrian peacekeeping forces in Beirut and Christian militia has killed more than 180
civilians in one of the worst outbreaks of violence since the civil war
came to an uneasy halt
two years ago.

Observers suggest that

the violence of the fighting may reflect the diametrically-opposed
reactions in the country to Carter's Middle East initiatives.

Camille Chamoun,
former Lebanese
president and a leader of the Christians, welcomed
the Carter peace conference proposal in principle, but said it would be unnecessary unless it helped end the Syrian occupation of Lebanon.

RESTLESS AND RESENTFUL

Quebec condition natural

VANCOUVER (CP) —
Restlessness and resentment
among French-Canadians
will always be a natural condition in Quebec because their lifestyle was drastically changed by the conquering English, a University of British Columbia (UBC) professor
says.

Prof. Cole Harris of UBC's geography department told a meeting of the Vancouver Institute Saturday that the French developed a one-
class agrarian society in Quebec before the English
arrived in the late 18th century.

He said 25 per cent of the French population lived in Montreal and Quebec City at the time while the rest lived

on farmland along the St.
Lawrence River.

"Their standard of living
rose in comparison to the peasant situation in France," Harris said. "The land
was free and while no one became very rich, no one
was really poor either."

He said a widening gap of power and wealth emerged
when the English squeezed
the French out of the fur trade by 1780.

The French then left the city for the farms but a limited amount of land and a larger birthrate led more poverty, Harris said.

As a result, many French tried to establish farms on land in the Canadian Shield
with disastrous results, he said, adding that eventually
they had to become laborers
for the English.

"The wages were extremely low since there were so many people after these jobs," Harris said. "There's no doubt that much of the English wealth in Quebec
can be attributed to cheap
French labor."

He said that this led to deeply-ingrained feelings of inferiority and resentment in

the French, feelings which have surfaced in the last 20 years.

"As a result, we can expect a lot of status seeking by the French, both politically and economically, as they try to make up for what has happened in the past."

Harris said that Canadians
have run out of land all across the country and that these limitations have divided Canadians.

"There has never been one common Canadian experience with the land, there have been several," he said.
"This has led to regionalism
that has drawn us apart."

FURTHER BACKLASH

Halifax Liberals worried

HALIFAX (CP) —
After the stunning defeat
of Nova Scotia's eight-
year-old Liberal administration last month, party strategists in the federal riding of Halifax-East Hants hope the electorate
is satisfied with one kick
at the government.

The Progressive Conservatives, benefactors of
the Nova Scotia elec-
torate's apparent ill
feeling toward the government, say one good
kick deserves another.

"The people have had a pretty good kick now,"
says an organizer in the Liberal campaign
headquarters. "They may have got it out of their system."

In any case the Liberals
are working on the safe
assumption that they are the underdog in the Oct.
16 byelection campaign of lawyer Ken MacInnis, 35,
trying to wrest the seat
from the Conservatives
and become Nova Scotia's third Liberal MP
in Ottawa. Conservatives hold seven federal seats
in the province and the

New Democrats the other
one.

MacInnis, who spent three years in Ottawa as legal counsel to Deputy Prime Minister Allan
MacEachen, is not playing up his party connections but presenting himself instead as the
"fighting counsel" for the Bedford Service Commission who fought big
government and won.

Last year he led a successful fight against the provincial Liberal government's plans to locate a dump in suburban Bedford.

Howard Crosby, a 44-
year-old lawyer and the province's former legal aid director campaigning
to hold the seat for the Conservatives, says he senses a strong anti-
government, anti-Trudeau
mood here which, combined with the party's 20-
year hold on the riding,
worries him a little. He thinks it encourages
complacency.

Crosby characterizes
the farflung constituency
which contains a good

cross-section of voters as
the "seat of small business."

As a lawyer in a two-
man firm, Crosby says he understands the burdensome crush of
government regulations
on small businesses but is wary of promising
specific remedies. He says the electorate has learned to be cautious
about "wolves offering complicated cookies."

Small businessmen as
the province's main
employers were singled
out for special attention
by all parties in the recent provincial election, all
promising to cut red tape
and free them from the
load of paperwork which
now occupies much of their time.

To maintain voter interest after the lackluster
provincial campaign,
national party leader Joe Clark appeared in the constituency last week
promising a more
sympathetic approach to the problems of the Atlantic region if his party is elected.

He was followed by

NDP leader Ed Broadbent who attended a
nominating meeting
where union leader Edgar Doubt became the party's candidate. Broadbent
advocated an infusion of federal funds into the economy as a short-term
measure to create jobs.

The NDP has had only marginal support in the riding.

Whoever wins the byelection, called after former deputy Commons
speaker Robert McCleave
was appointed a provincial court judge, is assured of a return to the hustings in less than a year in a vastly altered
constituency.

Halifax-East Hants
straddles the province,
stretching from the edge
of Halifax's northern suburbs to Cobequid Bay
and south to the
headlands outside Halifax
harbor on the Atlantic coast.

It will be replaced by the new federal constituency of Halifax West
in the next federal
general election, expected in the spring.

THIS WEEK
from Ottawa

Iona Campagnolo, M.P.

Canada does not need a west coast oil port.
This conclusion, confirmed last week by the National Energy Board, echoes what I have publicly stated since a speech in Kitimat in November, 1977, and closely parallels a federal cabinet announcement last February.

In its report on Canadian oil supply and requirements — requested by Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie in response to proposals like the one from Kitimat Pipelines Ltd. — the NEB concludes that we have greater supplies of domestic crude oil than was thought possible a couple of years ago; Canadians are doing a better job of conserving energy than had been predicted; and a range of alternatives to oil —
renewable energy sources in particular — are coming on stream earlier than projected.

Together, these successes mean that further imports on the west or east coasts, to meet Canadian needs, would not be required until the turn of the century — if then.

The NEB report puts firmly to rest the argument that the security of Canada's energy future depends on a west coast port.

That might still leave open the question of whether or not we want such a port — were it not for overwhelming evidence, collected during forums like the recent government funded West Coast Oil Port Inquiry, indicating staggering
environmental and social risks in exchange for few benefits to people in Skeena. We have better reason than ever now for saying: "We don't want it!"

Technically, the Kitimat proposal remains alive. As the Kitimat Pipelines Ltd. application is still before the board, a hearing will proceed if the company insists. However, it is quite clear — in light of this report — that approval would not be forthcoming.

Consequently, the companies involved in transporting Alaskan crude oil to the continental U.S. will now redouble the search for alternatives. A pipeline from Port Angeles, in Washington State, remains a possibility, but it now appears that a pipeline following the route of the Yukon Natural Gas Pipeline is a more likely possibility. A number of possible variations of this route have been proposed — and I will outline them for you at greater length in a future
report.

I can assure you that I will continue my efforts to ensure that, whatever alternate route is chosen for the transport of Alaska oil, it does not pose a threat to our vulnerable coastal environment.

In addition to its affirmation on the government's policy not to allow a west coast oil port,
the NEB report also contained other items of interest about Canadian oil supply and demand.

Discussing the demand for oil products, the board said it expects demand for gasoline to peak in 1980 and decline after that; mainly because of improved fuel economies, a trend to smaller cars, consumer response to price increases and the substitution of diesel fuel for gasoline in new automobiles and trucks.

The demand for light fuel oil, kerosene and stove oil is also expected to decline primarily as a result of higher energy prices, conservation programs, improved efficiency of home oil
heating equipment, and increased use of natural gas and electricity.

For further information on this important National Energy Board report, or on possible future developments in the transportation of Alaska crude oil, please do not hesitate to write to me care of the House of Commons, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0X2. No postage is required.

University students financially oriented

TORONTO (CP) — The
big men on campus are no
longer football players.
They are the people of finance, who watch
budgets as large as $1
million pass through their eager hands on the way to making student councils a viable part of big
business.

Student enterprise has mushroomed into a considerable service
industry, with its own
battery of legal and
financial wizardry and its own federal and provincial lobby.

"I guess you could say
there's an emerging technocracy in student governments as they become more service-oriented," says Brian Hill,
student administrative
council (SAC) president
at University of Toronto.
There certainly seems to be, especially when one looks at SAC's list of ventures. It publishes a newspaper, a literary journal, a handbook and
its own telephone
directory.

It runs a riding stable, a
ski tour and film service,
occasional pubs and a sex
education centre. SAC

also financially supports
a community health
service, a campus legal assistance centre, a concert promotion
company, many coun-
selling and referral
services, and numerous
clubs and organizations.
Furthermore, it owns 50
acres on the Bruce Trail
as a hedge against inflation.

The result is a cash flow
estimated at more than $1
million this school year
and, as big business, SAC
is working on a deficit.

Most student councils
at major Canadian universities are incorporated or plan to be.
Elected student officials
want protection from liability while they work.
The result is a legion of
eager commerce students
lining up for jobs that,
often as not, go to the
most qualified person—
who isn't always a
student.

Hill, at approximately $10,000 a year, earns slightly more than David McCaig, student union
president at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute,
who earns $9,000.

SPORTING A NEW IMAGE:

Timberman ready

Terrace hockey fans should be in for a treat this season, as this year's PN-WHL entry has whole new look, right down to a change in the squad's name.

This year's team will be called the Terrace Timbermen. A contest was held earlier in the year to pick a name for the club, with the Timbermen being the winning title.

The team features quite a few players who are young, but have extensive experience in the PN-WHL. Though just 19 years old, Lance Legouffe is a familiar face to most Terrace hockey fans, as he already has four years of experience in the league, having played for the Terrace entry since the days they were called the Centennials. He'll be adding a lot of strength down the middle.

Another forward returning is Barry Heit, who has been giving opposing defencemen fits with his smooth skating and Guy Lafleur-like moves the past three seasons. Also playing forward will be Blair Pritchard, Drew Faris, Dave Bell, Steve Radford, Doug Matheson, Robert Dempster, Guy Glaim, and Troy Farkvam.

Heading the blue line corps will be rugged Gord Cochrane, a tough customer who will versed in the art of keeping opposing forwards honest. A newcomer to watch on defence will be 19 year old Bob Grant, who has played Junior A hockey with the Nanaimo Clippers. Rounding out the defence will be Keith Colwill, Bruce Jamieson, and Art Herman. The goalkeepers include Kim Geddes, who has played J.A. hockey in Calgary, and 17 year old Rob Dozzo, who has played minor Rep hockey for the past six seasons.

Coaching the Timbermen will be their owner, Dale Kushner, himself a former Terrace player who is also involved with the Skeena Cedar Kings mens fastball team.

The timbermen kick off the season tonight at 8:30 in the Terrace Arena, with an exhibition game against the Totem Ford Reps, a team of Commercial League All-Stars. They play another exhibition contest in the arena Saturday at 8:30 P.M. this time against the Kitimat Winterhawks. Admission for these games will be $3.00 for adults, $1.50 for students, and 75 cents for children under 12. Season tickets are available at the arena office Monday to Friday from 9:00 AM to 4:30 PM, for $45 each, and well worth the price.

Last Saturday, many children under 12 took advantage of an offer of free season passes being handed out at the arena office. The team will be giving out more such passes this coming Saturday between 2 and 5 P.M. Children must bring their birth certificate or some form of identification showing their age qualify for the free passes.

Regular season play for the Timbermen begins Sunday, when they travel to Prince Rupert to take on the Atom Motor Kings. Their first home game will be Sunday, October 22, when the Houston Luckies will be in town.

With a new owner, coach, management, and many promising players, the Timbermen could be in a position to make a real run at the Fowler Cup, symbol of PN-WHL.

DESPITE LOSS LAST YEAR

Christenson not worried

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Christenson, Philadelphia Phillies' rangy right-hander who pitches the opener of tonight's National League baseball playoff series against Los Angeles Dodgers, looked at the scoreboard from the post-season game he pitched last year and shook his head.

"They got some hits off me, didn't they?" said Christenson, who meets Burt Hooton, 19-10, in a rematch of last year's third game of the NL playoffs.

It was Christenson vs. Hooton on Oct. 7, 1977, the third game of a series that was even at 1-1 and the first at Veterans Stadium. When that wild affair was over, the Dodgers led the series 2-1 on the way to handing the Phillies their second straight playoff elimination.

The Dodgers broke in front with two runs on four hits off Christenson in the second inning, only to fall behind in the bottom of the inning when Philadelphia scored three runs on two hits and four straight walks by Hooton.

The 63,000 fans didn't let up for a minute, screaming and howling at Hooton's every delivery. The pitcher lasted 1-2-3 innings before he left, gesturing his defiance to the crowd, but his team won the game anyway, scoring three runs in the top of the ninth to overcome a 5-3 Phillies' lead.

On Tuesday, during an off-day workout, Christenson said he remembered that game.

"It's the same situation," he said of the pitching matchup, but that's as far as he was willing to draw a comparison.

For one thing, he'll be pitching at night instead of an afternoon game.

"I prefer pitching at night," said Christenson. "It makes me feel better. I feel stronger and it's tough to wake up early."

Christenson, who said he feels he's been pitching the best baseball of his career, said he hung too many curve balls in last year's playoff against the Dodgers in which he lasted 3-1-3 innings.

He said the slider he was throwing blistered his throwing hand, but he stopped using the slider early this year.

"My finger is all healed up now," said the six-foot-four Christenson, 33-14 this year. "I will be throwing all four of my pitches."

While Christenson has been pitching well, he hasn't received that much support from the Phillies offensively. In his 14 losses, the Phillies scored only 20 runs for him.

Christenson has a 1-0 record against the Dodgers this year and is 3-4 lifetime. His best outing against the Dodgers this year was June 3 when he allowed two hits in eight innings. Reliever Tug McGraw got the win, however, on Dave Johnson's grand slam homer in the ninth.

"This year, the last few months, my pitching has been the best of my career," he said. "I've been mixing my pitches well, avoiding mistakes and taking my time."

"Not making mistakes is the way to beat good hitting. If I wasn't pitching well, I would be worried. I'm not really worried."

"The only thing you can do is give it your best effort and hope for the best. We are mentally more prepared because we've had to win (to take the NL East the third straight year) and we've still got to win."

Hooton said he's not even thinking about his debacle in last season's playoffs here. "Thinking about last year's game is not going to help me this year," said Hooton, the Dodgers' top winner and owner of the team's lowest earned-run average among starters, 2.71.

FIGHTING OUTGOING TIDES

Taylor's second attempt a failure

(AP) — Marathon swimmer Stella Taylor, her body ravaged by cramps, salt water and jellyfish stings, Tuesday gave up her second bid to be the first person to swim from the Bahamas to Florida.

Miss Taylor was lifted aboard one of her support ships at 1:40 p.m. EDT, exactly 51 hours after entering the water at Orange Cay, a small island in the Bimini chain of the Bahamas. Her position was 44 kilometres east of Hallandale, a Florida coast city about eight kilometres south of Fort Lauderdale.

The distance of her proposed route was 200 kilometres. It is difficult to estimate how far Miss Taylor swam because currents and navigating problems took her off course.

Despite her deteriorating physical condition, the 46-year-old swimmer resisted for 15 minutes when aides tried to convince her that her effort was hopeless.

Crew members said plans are already being considered for a third attempt after Miss Taylor regains her strength. This time, however, they indicated the route of the swim may be reversed, leaving the Florida Keys and swimming eastward to the Bahamas. A spokesman said Miss

Taylor would be taken Tuesday to Fort Lauderdale, probably for treatment of the numerous jellyfish stings and assorted sores and burns acquired during her 2½-day ordeal.

The British-born swimmer's effort to swim from Bimini to Florida last August ended in failure when she was pulled from the water exhausted just 20 kilometres from the Florida coast.

Blacks demanding apology for remarks made by Twins owner

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn dissociated baseball from racist remarks allegedly attributed to one of the major league owners and said Tuesday that he was looking into the matter.

"We are proud of black players we have had in our game and of their vital contributions to baseball growth and success," the commissioner said.

Kuhn made the statement in a reply sent to Gleason Glover, executive director of the Minneapolis Urban League, who urged an investigation of a speech made by Calvin Griffith, owner of Minneapolis Twins, to a Lion's Club group in Waseca, Minn., last week.

Among other controversial remarks, Griffith was quoted as saying that he moved the baseball franchise to the Twin Cities from Washington, D.C., because "you only have 15,000 blacks here."

"They'll fill up a 'rasaling ring and put up such a chant it will scare you to death," Griffith was quoted as saying. "We came here because you've got such good, hard-working white people here."

Griffith's remarks triggered a storm of protest not only in the black community but among his own players and fan supporters.

Two black members of the Minnesota legislature demanded that Griffith be reprimanded by baseball and made to apologize to the area.

Kuhn said in his response to Glover that he is trying to establish what Mr. Griffith actually said.

"Meanwhile, let me assure you that the quoted remarks in no way represent the view of professional baseball regarding black players or any part of the black community in the United States."

In his speech, the 66-year-old Griffith also called Twins slugger Rod Carew "a damn fool" for signing a contract for $170,000 and said the performance of catcher Butch Wynegar suffered because he got married.

Carew vowed he never would play again for the Twins. He has an option year remaining on his contract.

One of the black members of the Minnesota legislature, Ray Pleasant of Bloomington, suggested the people of the area "deserve a replacement franchise."

Griffith said his comments were misinterpreted and said in jest. He also said he will try to explain the remarks to Carew and other offended persons.

The Grapevine

by Albert B. Cribari

The Winemaster's Job

My job as winemaster at B. Cribari & Sons Winery is interesting and I'm going to devote this column to briefly describing the role of the winemaster in the actual making of the wine.

Almost all of us in the winemaking business honestly believe that our individual winemaking processes are unique and personal. This is particularly true when it comes to blending wines because they are the product of the winemaker's special talents and capabilities.

A good share of my day is spent in our laboratory tasting and evaluating wine. My eyes, nose, tongue and instincts all add up to help me make my decisions about our wines.

Many of our wines are blends to combine the best qualities of several grapes. Achieving the proper blend is the hardest part of my job. The essence of any wine is taste, aroma and color. After we have checked the blend in the laboratory, there is the final, ultimate test which is my own individual assessment and response. Naturally, these judgments cannot be solely my personal preference. My taste has to be representative of millions of Cribari customers who buy our wine.

Actually, the role of the winemaster is a dual one. I've got to be both a winemaker and the average Cribari customer. It's a job I wouldn't trade for anything.

If I can help you with an answer to your wine questions, please write to me at B. Cribari & Sons, Suite 608, 500 Sansome Street, San Francisco, CA 94111.

In these days of "package deals" the Wells Gray Provincial Park in eastern B.C. offers you a huge, irresistible package of five large lakes, waterfalls, rivers, rapids, mineral springs, icefields, warm gas flows and lava beds.

All this and much more are scattered over 520,000 hectares. Opportunities for fishing, hiking, swimming and camping in a great variety of spectacular scenery makes Wells Gray Park unforgettable.

Its main entrance is at Hemp Creek which is 40 kilometres north of Highway 5. To reach it, turn off the highway near the community of Clearwater, and then take the gravel road to the entrance. From these roads goes as far as Clearwater Lake—a distance of 33.6 kilometres.

This is one of the park's large lakes, surrounded with such superb scenery that it is hard to keep your mind on the excellent fishing.

On its shore are campsites and wilderness camping areas. Both this lake and neighboring Azure Lake were formed when an ancient lava flow blocked the valley. One of the park's highlights is the round trip on these two lakes starting from the Clearwater Lake Campground.

To the north of Clearwater Lake is Hobson Lake. The waterway between the two lakes is very dangerous and visitors are warned not to traverse it. But for those who are interested in travelling from one lake to the other a 12.8-kilometre trail has been developed.

These three lakes — Clearwater, Azure and Hobson—are long, slightly bow-shaped. In their vicinity are glaciers, icefields, creeks, and large rivers, notably the Clearwater River.

The other two lakes of importance in the park are the Murtle and Mahood.

Mahood Lake is on the park's southwest corner. It can be reached from 100 Mile House on Highway 97. The lake has a good swimming beach, boat-launching ramp and campgrounds. Smaller lakes are nearby such as Pendleton Lakes and the Tommy Archie. There are also many waterfalls. Sylvia Waterfall and the Goodwin are near Mahood Lake. Deception Falls is on nearby Deception Creek, and can be reached from Mahood Lake either by boat or by a short hike.

Besides the grand-scale offerings of the park, there are the smaller ones: the many species of birds, flowers, trees, and the different kinds of animals.

The park was established in 1939, and named after the Honorable A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands for British Columbia from 1933 to 1941.

Clearwater Lake: Just one of many.

Won't Spend Time With Grieving Dad

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman who was never very close to my parents after my marriage. I was comfortable with the way things were, and so were they. My mother died recently, and I would feel very hypocritical were I to suddenly smother my father with a lot of attention. I sat with him and the rest of the family every day and evening for the duration of the official mourning period (one week), and now that it's over I have resumed my life as before. My father is not helpless. He has always been very independent and he knows my phone number if he wants me.

My problem is my sister. She is making me feel very guilty because she is constantly with Dad. I don't feel that I have to compete with my sister by putting in equal time with Dad.

Please help me with some answers.

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR GUILTY: Guilt is a judgment we feel against ourselves. No one can make you feel guilty. If you feel guilty, you probably earned it. It's just as well that you don't feel compelled to spend time with your grieving father in order to compete with your sister because he'd surely sense your insecurity, and your presence would offer him little comfort.

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from an Oklahoma reader who suggested sprinkling mothballs on the lawn to keep dogs away. The writer must not have had small children, because that is a very dangerous practice. My small son ate half a mothball at my mother-in-law's home and we had to rush him to the hospital to have his stomach pumped! Although mothballs have a very unpleasant odor, they LOOK like candy, and most children will eat anything that looks like it might taste good. Abby, please tell your readers that children can die if they ingest mothballs. There must be a better way to keep dogs off one's lawn.

ALICE IN SAN BRUNO

DEAR ALICE: Thank you and all the others who wrote to urge me to retract that suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: I married a divorced Catholic in Mexico back in 1959. He said his church would not let him marry again, and this was the only way he could make our marriage legal.

In Mexico we found an office where a man was selling marriage applications for $25. We bought one and filled it out and signed it. The man who sold it to us also signed it, and that was that.

We split up after one year. What I want to know is this: Is that marriage still legal? Was it ever filed anywhere in the United States? Or are we married only in Mexico?

I haven't seen this man in 18 years and now want to marry a guy in a legitimate way. If I marry him without mentioning the Mexican marriage am I committing bigamy?

I can't find any information about this in the library, and my wedding date is drawing near. Sign me...

"WAS DUMB AT 23"

DEAR WAS DUMB: Some Mexican marriages (and divorces) are valid and some are not. Play it safe and consult a lawyer. He (or she) will tell you—rapidamente!

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.L. IN KETTERING, OHIO: If you want your children to keep their feet on the ground, put some responsibility on their shoulders.

Horoscope

Frances Drake

What kind of day will today be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

By working quietly in the background, you may get some information highly useful to job or business interests. To insure favorable results, double-check before using it.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

It will be up to you to make the overtures necessary to bring opposing forces together and conclude agreements beneficial to all. Success adds a bright feather to your cap.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

A day in which your innately active and energetic self will be highly stimulated. Don't expect all to have your enthusiasm.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Try to control a tendency to worry over personal problems. Help is on the way. You should seek assistance in your current dilemma and gain insight into how to prevent future problems.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Work should go exceptionally well for you. Superiors will notice results. If an employer, you will get more help than usual from those under your supervision.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

There's a possibility of some complications in a financial matter. If you can, postpone action for 24 hours, when you can solve all with relative ease.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Curb an impulse to take on enterprises you would not ordinarily consider. Stellar influences now suggest that you stick to routine, avoid recklessness of any sort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Certain changes are in order, others are NOT. Don't go against the grain needlessly, or penetrate too deeply into unknown waters before you have the know-how and facts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Finesse and, possibly, a more original treatment will brighten everyday routine and stimulate your mind in more taxing matters. A good day for accomplishment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

A day in which it will be important to use your very best judgment. If, on second thought, an idea or plan seems impractical, don't waste time trying to make it work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Your best stock in trade is your warm personality; also your creative talent. Both should make this a fun way for you — IF you use it smartly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Mixed influences. Organize your talents and know-how to promote interests more efficiently. Some personal plans may have to be deleted from your program at present.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a delightful personality, great integrity and a practicality that helps you to put your original and imaginative ideas over the top. You can add the touch that makes an ordinary job sparkle, put lively enthusiasm into a dull or simple undertaking. You are extremely versatile but, in using your many talents, you concentrate on the more sound and basic aspect of the job rather than on its showier side. Thus, in the theater, you would be a better producer than actor; in writing, historical research would have more meaning than a novel. But you do love the arts and should you decide to take one up either vocationally or avocationally, music and sculpture would be your best bets.
